Roadkill Cookbook

RoadKill Basic Recipe Rules of The RoadKill

1. Freshness is always the rule
(if it's still there on your way home, it's too late).
2. Semi-squashed is much better than squashed; anything

clobbered by an 18-wheeler is absolutely undesirable.

3. Blacktop surfaces are much preferred over dirt roads; concrete is a gourmet's delight.

4. Remember the early bird catches the....ah, worm!

Road Chicken

- One, 4 lb. (your Favorite RoadKill) (boned and cubed)
 - One, large onion
 - Two cloves garlic
 - 1/2 tsp. cayenne pepper
 - 1 tbs. Chile powder
 - 1 can beer
 - 2 beef bullion cubes

Saute RoadKill until tender. Add onion, cook until onion is translucent. Add the rest of the seasonings, mix well and add beer and bullion cubes. Cook 10 - 12 minutes on medium heat.

ROAD KILL CAFE

Tips for fresh road kill

The key is you need to carry with you a piece of chalk. When you are on your way into town you stop at any road kill on the road and put a chalk circle around it.

On the way home any road kill that you see without a chalk circle is fresh and good to go.

Thanks!
Norm, from Lubbock, TX
